GREAT PLAINS RESEARCH is a peer-reviewed, biannual, multidisciplinary science journal, which publishes original research and scholarly reviews of important advances in the natural and social sciences with relevance to the Great Plains region and with special emphases on environmental, economic, and social issues. It includes reviews of books.

Articles include:

- original research findings, such as have been published in GPR since 1991;
- synopses of the “state of the science” on topics relevant to the Great Plains;
- overviews of critical environmental, economic, and social issues for the plains;
- reviews of knowledge on important questions and their regional application; and
- syntheses and cross-disciplinary analyses relevant to the Great Plains.

Great Plains Research is indexed or abstracted in America: History and Life, Biosis Previews, Biological Abstracts, Environment Abstracts, Historical Abstracts, Geographical Abstracts and GEOBASE, Meteorological and Geostrophysical Abstracts, and CSA Sociological Abstracts, Inc.

The editor encourages those submissions in particular that report general findings in the sciences relevant to this vast region. Articles should include thoughtful reviews of critical scientific findings and issues relevant to the Great Plains, whether the research was done in the Great Plains or not. The key to acceptance will be how well the findings are related to the region, and how well the science is communicated to other scientists outside the specific discipline, in the style of Scientific American, for example. The Board of Governors’ Publication Committee will select annually the best paper in natural sciences and the best paper in social sciences. The author/s of the winning papers will be presented cash prizes for the Charles E. Bessey Award (natural sciences) or the Leslie Hewes Award (social sciences).

Scientists doing interesting work with important implications for this region are invited to synthesize their significant research results and present them to our readers. The overall goals are to develop Great Plains Research as a centralized outlet for science of regional importance, to communicate important scientific findings to as wide an educated audience as possible, and to help keep scientists, interested citizens, and leaders of this region up-to-date on scientific progress relevant to the Great Plains.

NEWS AND NOTES

NEW MAP: THE TOP 50 ECOTOURISM SITES IN THE GREAT PLAINS

The Center for Great Plains Studies has announced the publication of an ecotourism map. During spring and summer of 2012, the Center conducted a two-phase survey of 51 naturalists from nine states. The sites receiving the most nominations in the second phase were named as the top 50 sites. The map will be distributed at visitors centers throughout the Great Plains. For more information, see the ad on page 180 or the web site: www.unl.edu/plains.

CONFERENCES

November 4–7, 2012

The Annual Meeting of the Geological Society of America will be in Charlotte, NC. The theme is “Geosciences: Investing in the Future.” Web site: www.geosociety.org/meetings/.

November 11–14, 2012

The 60th Annual Meeting of the Entomological Society of America will be held in Knoxville, TN. This year’s theme is “A Global Society for a Global Science.” Covering all aspects of the science, the section and member symposia will provide insight into many of the world’s most vexing problems that affect you and the global community, and will help you with your research. Web site: www.entsoc.org/entomology2012.

November 14–18, 2012

The 111th Annual Meeting of the American Anthropological Association will be held in San Francisco, CA. The theme is “Borders and Crossings.” San Francisco offers the perfect venue for thinking about border crossings across time, space, embodied differences, language and culture. If we have learned anything in the last decade with the increasing globalization of social movements, the election of the first black US president, and the legalization of gay marriage in five states, it is that borders—taboos, injunctions, stigmas and resource flows—are not fixed, but open to renegotiation. It is in that spirit that we dedicate this meeting to recognizing our discipline’s borders and those borders’ permeability to relevant transgressions. Web site: www.aaanet.org/meetings/.

December 28, 2012 through January 20, 2013

The Geological Society of America (GSA) kicks off the celebration of its 125th anniversary with an expedition to Antarctica, “Travels in Geology — Antarctica and the Scotia Arc: Tectonics, Climate and Life.” Web site: <http://www.geosociety.org/125/>.

February 3–7, 2013

The 66th Annual Meeting of the Society for Range Management will be held in Oklahoma City, OK. The theme is “Native America – Native Rangelands.” Web site: www.rangelands.org/events/.

March 7–9, 2013

The 56th Annual Missouri Valley History Conference will be at Embassy Suites Downtown/Old Market, Omaha, NE. The theme is “Life Must Be Lived as Play: Competition, Sport & Leisure in Human History.” Contact Dr. Jeanne Reames, MVHC Program Chair by e-mail: mvhc.coordinator@gmail.com; web site is www.unomaha.edu/mvhc/index.php.

April 3–4, 2013

The 2013 National Conference on Rural Education Research will be in Omaha, NE, at the Embassy Suites Omaha/Downtown/Old Market. The theme is “Promoting Academic Success of Rural Students.” The National Center for Research on Rural Education (R<sup>2</sup>Ed) will assemble researchers, educational practitioners and policymakers from across the country to discuss the factors influencing rural K-12 students’ academic achievement.

The conference will foster dialogue about the inter-related impacts of teaching, parental involvement and school environment on rural students’ performance. Participating practitioners and administrators will explore methods for incorporating researchers’ recent findings into schools and educational policy.

Nebraska Commissioner of Education Roger Breed will provide the conference’s keynote address. The conference will feature several moderated panel presentations, each of which will include representatives from the research, practitioner and policy communities. Small-group roundtable discussions will follow the presentations, giving attendees the opportunity to engage in dialogue while providing and receiving real-time reaction through a conference-specific Twitter feed.

For more information, see this web site: <http://r2ed.unl.edu/2013/eblast/savethedate.html>.

April 5–6, 2013

The Center for Great Plains Studies, University of Nebraska–Lincoln, presents its 39th Interdisciplinary Symposium in collaboration with the University of Nebraska at Kearney. “School Consolidation in the Great Plains: Efficiencies, Change, and Community Identity” will be held at the University of Nebraska at Kearney and the Younes Conference Center in Kearney, Nebraska.

Most rural communities throughout the Great Plains have been losing population for nearly a century. One especially difficult, unhappy, and contentious consequence of this decline is loss of local schools through school consolidation.

Starting in the middle of the twentieth century, consolidation of school districts drastically reshaped American schools. In urban and suburban areas, consolidation was largely completed by 1980, but it continues to be a critical and controversial issue in the Great Plains today. The symposium will address such questions as: What are the causes and consequences of consolidation? What are its effects on students? What are its wider effects on rural communities and the rural quality of life? Is it possible to respond to population shifts in ways that better recognize the value of local schools in the life of a rural community? Are there alternatives?

The conference is open to the public. There is a registration fee. Contact the Center by e-mail: cgps@unl.edu; web site: www.unl.edu/plains.

April 5–6, 2013

The 145th Annual Meeting of the Kansas Academy of Science will be held at at Johnson County Community College. Web site: www.kansasacademyscience.org/.

IN MEMORIUM: CLARE (BUD) MCKANNA, JR.

In March 2012, Clare (Bud) McKanna, Jr. passed away in his home in San Diego, CA. A preeminent scholar of the American West, Bud taught classes in U.S., California, Native American, and Latin American history at San Diego State University and local community colleges in a career that spanned 40 years.

Bud came to the University of Nebraska–Lincoln in 1990, where he started his PhD program in history under Professor John Wunder. As a graduate student, Bud served as editorial assistant under Editor Paul Kay as they worked to inaugurate the Great Plains Research journal. In 1992, Paul Kay left for a position at the University of Waterloo, and Bud stepped in as editor. In 1994, Bud left for his home and a teaching job at San Diego State University.

In 1997, Bud published his first book, Homicide, Race, and Justice in the American West, 1880-1920 (University of Arizona Press). Four more books followed, including Race and Homicide in Nineteenth-Century California (University of Nevada Press, 2002), The Trial of “Indian Joe”: Race and Justice in the Nineteenth-Century West (University of Nebraska Press, 2003), White Justice in Arizona: Apache Murder Trials in the Nineteenth Century (Texas Tech University Press, 2005), and Court-Martial of Apache Kid: The Renegade of Renegades (Texas Tech University Press, 2009).

At the time of his death, Bud McKanna and Richard W. Crawford were completing a book on San Diego’s historic Stingaree district. A recent tour of that district that Bud organized for friends drew upon his expertise in homicide and his passion for local history. He called his tour “A Walk on the Wild Side: Booze, Bawds, and Murder in the Stingaree.”

For more information on Bud’s life, see the story written by his colleague, Clare Colquitt, on the San Diego State University web site: http://newscenter.sdsu.edu/sdsu\_newscenter/news.aspx?s=73541.

- All manuscripts must be concise:
  - no more than 5,000 words excluding abstract and reference sections.
- Tables and figures (including maps) must be carefully composed to achieve the author's goal of clarity of presentation.
- There is no limit for either figures or tables accompanying the manuscript. Authors must, however, be judicious in their use of figures and tables.
- All submissions must be double-spaced, and include abstract, key words, text, and references, and printed on 8.5 by 11-inch white paper with 1-inch margins. Use Times New Roman font.
- Informational footnotes are not accepted.
- Authors must prepare a separate title page with their name(s) and affiliation(s), and any acknowledgments, which will not be sent to reviewers. The title of the paper must be repeated directly above the abstract.
- Authors must submit three copies of their manuscripts and a CD-R of all figures and tables.
- If the manuscript is accepted for publication, author(s) will be asked to send the final document as an e-mail attachment or on a CD-R in Word or Rich Text Format/.rtf file.

REVIEW PROCESS. ALL MANUSCRIPTS ARE GIVEN DOUBLE-BLIND REVIEW. Authors must prepare a separate title page with their name(s) and affiliation(s), and any acknowledgments, which will not be sent to reviewers. The title of the paper must be repeated directly above the abstract. Authors should avoid self-identification in the text. When at least two external reviewers with expertise in the topic have submitted their evaluations, the manuscript is reviewed by the Editor who makes the final decision to publish.

Phone: (402) 472-6970
E-mail: gpr@unl.edu

Article Style. Authors should write simply and in the first person, communicate with a broad interdisciplinary audience in jargon-free language, and avoid sexist, racist, or otherwise biased language or intent.

Title. Article titles should not exceed 10 words (or 82 characters) and should not have subtitles.

Abstract. A short abstract of fewer than 200 words should precede the main text. The abstract should identify the problem addressed in the paper, indicate the methodology, and summarize the results. Authors should prepare an abstract that will be interesting to and understood by nonspecialists in the field. Five to eight key words should accompany the abstract.

Illustrations. All illustrations including maps should be referenced parenthetically by arabic numbers in the text. For example, "Rainfall increases with elevation (Fig. 1)." Captions for figures should be sent as a separate file and not included or embedded into the figure itself. All illustrations should be sized for 1-column width (3.25") or 2-column width (6.625"), be no more than 9.0" in height, and be sent as separate files as "grayscale" tiff or eps graphic files at 350 dpi, and "line" illustrations should be 1200 dpi. High quality pdf files are acceptable.

DO NOT send figures embedded into your article, as Word figures, or as PowerPoint® graphics. Send illustrations/figures as separate files on a CD-R. Use a sans serif font such as Arial.

Maps. A bar scale in kilometers and a north arrow must be included on all maps. Enlarged details of maps should be to scale. All geographic places mentioned in the text should be shown on a map. Use a sans serif font such as Arial.

Measurements. All measurements should be given in SI units (expanded metric system).

Tables. Tables should be presented on separate sheets apart from the text and printed as quality images. They should be formatted to fit the standard text area of the journal [1-column width (3.25") or 2-column width (6.625") and no more than 9.0" in height], since they may be treated as camera-ready illustrations at the time of publication. Send tables separately as Word files with article file on CD-R. Use Times New Roman font.

Reference Style. Great Plains Research uses The Chicago Manual of Style, 16th edition, as its reference guide. The journal uses author-date citations in chronological order in the text [for example: (Smith et al. 1990; Templer 1992; Jones in press)] and a complete reference section that gives author, year, title, source, and page references for journal or newspaper articles. Include page numbers for quotations [for example: (Templer 1992, 45)].
